

Continue the Story

Name: _____

Date: _____

The First Snowflake

The sky turned soft and gray, and the first snowflake of the year landed on Jamie's mitten. It did not melt. It glowed with a tiny blue light, then another flake landed beside it. Soon Jamie's mitten held a little path of glowing snowflakes, pointing toward the end of the street.

Now finish the story.

[illegible]

Continue the Story

Name: _____

Date: _____

The Snowman Who Blinked

Taylor and Drew rolled the last snowball into place and stepped back to look at their snowman. Scarf, hat, carrot nose, and two dark eyes. Perfect. Then one of the eyes blinked. The snowman leaned forward a little and whispered, "Thank you for building me. I need a favor before the sun goes down."

Now finish the story.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Continue the Story

Name: _____

Date: _____

Across the Frozen Pond

The pond was smooth and clear, like a giant window over the water. Skye glided across the ice, scarf flying behind. Near the middle of the pond, Skye saw something under the ice: a small silver key lying on the dark water below. As Skye circled closer, the key slowly began to rise toward the surface.

Now finish the story.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Continue the Story

Name: _____

Date: _____

Cocoa by the Window

Snow covered the cabin roof and the pine trees outside. Inside, a mug of hot cocoa sat by the window, still steaming. Cameron picked it up and noticed a tiny folded note stuck to the bottom of the mug. The note said, "Follow the fox tracks after the last marshmallow melts." Outside, fresh tracks led into the trees.

Now finish the story.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

Continue the Story

Name: _____ Date: _____

The Flying Sled

Alex climbed onto the wooden sled at the top of the hill. One push, and the sled raced down through the powder. Halfway down, the sled left the ground. It did not bump. It floated. The pine trees slid past below, and Alex realized the sled was not coming down at all.

Now finish the story.
